Coleman Wins Interscholastic Track Meet

Four Points Short of Last Year's Record; Fifty Points Ahead of Nearest Rival; Nick Polski High Point Scorer.

For the fourth consecutive year Coleman's track team captured the laurels at the C.N.P. school track meet and earned the enviable record of being the first school team to win four consecutive victories. The team won class A and class C championships and also retained the shield emblematic of school track supremacy.

Coleman held a wide margin over its nearest rival, Bellevue, and "coasted home" with a lead of approximately fifty points. The boys and girls compiled the largest group totals in their respective divisions. In team spirit and team effort this year's team earned 161 points, merely four points less than last year's record-shattering performance.

This year's school effort emphasizes again the fact that Coleman's organization and school spirit is reaping results through close co-operation of teachers and students.

The complete personnel of the team is as follows:

Hillcrest Mystery Cleared Up By Finding of Skeleton

Found by Two Boys; Bones Said to Be Those of Alex. Markovitch.

A 16-months old mystery was cleared up when two boys found the skeleton of Alex. Markovitch, 19. Identification was established through shreds of clothing, cigarette case and a 22 calibre rifle which he purchased at a Hillcrest store prior to his disappearance.

It is thought that he accidentally slipped on a log, there being one in close proximity to the skeleton, and that a bullet had hit him, causing death.

It had been originally thought the boy had made his way to Vancouver, as he had intimated to friends that he might do so. Following his disappearance a report was received that he had been seen in Vancouver.

He is survived by his mother, still residing at Hillcrest, and who helped establish identity of her son.

Bobby Ankil has returned to Calgary where he will complete a course in the air training technical school.

Mrs. J. M. Allan is a patient at Holy Cross hospital. Mr. Allan motored to Calgary on Sunday when he paid her a visit.

Mayor F. Antrobus' Proclamation on Newspaper Week

In this era of fast moving and conflicting local, national and world events, it is fitting that we should recognize and pay tribute to the weekly press of Canada for the valuable service it constantly renders to the people in presenting the true facts of news happenings to the great reading public.

In this critical time when the very foundations of Democracy are threatened from within and without, it is vitally important that we demonstrate our full support of those agencies and institutions such as the weekly press whose aims and efforts are indispensable to an enlightened public opinion.

Since October 7 to 12 has been set aside as Newspaper Week in Canada, and since it is fitting that the people of our community join in this Dominion observance, I deem it a privilege to proclaim the same period as Newspaper Week in Coleman and do hereby urge that all citizens give serious thought to the benefits they themselves derive from the weekly press which is free to publish all the facts and which is rendering an invaluable community service.

F. ANTROBUS, Mayor.

Analysis Shows Drinking Water Improving

Provincial Laboratory Reports Show Water Still Contaminated But Not to Same Degree As Formerly; International Water Pure.

The council has been advised by R. M. Shaw, of the Provincial Laboratory, that the water samples taken from a local stream still show signs of contamination. Mr. Shaw however uses the word "suspicious" in his report of Oct. 1, instead of the blunt "positive" that he used in other reports.

Following is his report to the council:

From International Mine—Number of organisms per c.c. or each 15 drops, too numerous to count in 1-10 c.c. Presence of organisms indicating unfavorable contamination in a 55 c.c. standard sample—Negative.
Tap in Town Hall—Suspicious.
Nex Perce Creek above dam—Suspicious.
The sample of water taken from the town hall gave a high count. One tube of five 100 c.c. portions showed B. coli.

With Ink On His Hands R. RANDOLPH KARCH

Arsenal Junior High School, Pittsburgh

THE PRINTER, hard at work over his cases was observed by his visitors. His keen ears heard the quiet voices that said, "I would not want to work at printing. It is too dirty, this job with ink and types." The printer rose, stretched out his hands, and observing them said:

"I AM NOT ASHAMED OF THE INK ON MY HANDS. The labor with these little leaden casts dwarfs in importance all the other industries of mankind. Without these metallic types the world would never have risen above the power of the enemies of liberty and freedom of thought and law. This trade is powerful in education and business; without it both would cease to exist. During the chaos of the dark ages, printers, hidden away in the fastness of the mountains from the roving, destroying bands, preserved through printing the arts and crafts, the laws and literature of a world gone mad. Printing has long controlled the destinies of mankind. I AM PROUD OF THIS INK ON MY HANDS."

Canadians Drop From Senior Hockey League

League Refuses to Subsidize Coleman and Drumheller; Given One Year's Leave of Absence.

Alberta senior hockey league will operate with four teams this winter, it was decided at a league meeting held at Calgary last Sunday.

Olds voluntarily withdrew and the League could not see its way to subsidize Coleman and Drumheller to the extent necessary to keep them functioning. The teams which will form the league are Edmonton, Calgary, Turner Valley and Lethbridge.

One significant paragraph emanating from the Calgary report was that which stated it was the feeling of the meeting that neither Coleman nor Drumheller would be able to get a team together at this stage of the year capable of competing with the other teams in the league. Evidently Coleman's showing in the past two years and Drumheller's last year hindered rather than helped their chances of a subsidy this year.

Disappointment has come to a large section of the Pass hockey fans now that Coleman is definitely out of senior hockey for this year at least. The most surprising fact at the team being out in the cold comes when negotiations were in progress to organize a team. Contact had been made between players and executive and it was only a case of agreeing on terms.

CBC TO START NEW PROGRAM FEATURE

Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will inaugurate a new program on Sunday mornings at 8:45 o'clock. The program will be presented over by R. D. Colquhoun, who will be known as the neighborhood news broadcaster. The program will consist of a budget of interesting, amusing, newsy items culled from the weekly newspapers of the prairie provinces. It will be Mr. Colquhoun's aim to read over the radio during the course of the year items from each of the 280-odd weekly papers in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Canvass Committees Appointed; Follow Same Procedure As Last Year

Coleman branch of the Canadian Red Cross will launch its drive for funds on Oct. 14 and continue until every adult in town has been enrolled.

President Dutil described the campaign of last year and its success, when approximately $800 was collected. It was decided to follow the same course this year with the addition of another committee to solicit the business and professional men.

The town and district were divided into nine sections and committees appointed to solicit each section. Personnel of committees: East Coleman, section of river, W. Dutil, Mrs. Kolber, S. Ewan; north of river, M. Opulski, M. Stigler, Mrs. A. E. Graham; West Coleman, A. McCulloch, W. Kubica, Mrs. Chukla; Carbonade and Willow Drive, Mrs. H. G. Claxton and Mrs. A. S. Sennel and Lime Kiln, W. Dutil and S. Ewan; Italian Town, A. Toppo and N. Nicholas; Graftonville and Blairmore Road, Mrs. W. L. Rippon, Mrs. Lant, H. Sherratt; 1, 2, 3, 4 streets, Rev. J. E. Kirk, Mrs. T. Holstead, Mrs. Aristotle, Mrs. C. Rose; 5, 6, 7 streets, Mrs. J. K. near, Jr., Mrs. E. Ash, Mrs. H. G. Claxton and A. Balloch; business houses and professional men, N. E. MacAulay, Miss A. Yull, John McDonald and a miners' delegate.

Red Cross buttons will be given to persons who have given $1.00 or more. A large volume of advertising will be displayed throughout town in an endeavor to make the public conscious of the gigantic task ahead of the Red Cross Association this year and to impress upon them that it is imperative for everyone to give generously.

The Dominion objective is $5,000,000 with Alberta's quota being $300,000.

At the start of the meeting some correspondence was dealt with. Headquarters advised the local branch that CLEAN used clothing would be most acceptable. Mrs. A. Ankil was put in charge of the committee to handle this type of clothing.

The local branch was also authorized to investigate the refugee problem, should any exist, in Coleman. It has been found that, throughout the Dominion, through the goodness of their hearts, have offered their homes to children of relatives and friends in Britain. Upon the arrival of the children Red Cross authorities have found that in some cases would-be benefactors are unable to clothe them. It is for this reason that all Red Cross branches are asked to check up on all refugee children coming into their respective towns.

Mrs. Rippon displayed to the executive a number of young misses' dresses and other garments made by the war work committee.

Due to having been transferred to another district, Tom McCloy, miners' representative, tendered his resignation. This was accepted and M. Stigler, secretary of the union, asked to have the union appoint another delegate.

Local Youths Called For 30 Days Military Training

33 local youths have been called for thirty days military duty. Official notices were received at the week-end and the first group of men started for camp at Red Deer on Monday morning. Another group of thirteen men left on Tuesday morning.

A special Greyhound bus has been chartered and each morning transports all Pass men called up to the military camp. A large number of relatives and friends gather to bid them farewell.

When Germany's blitzkrieg struck the British Isles, the importance of Canada's contribution to Red Cross became fully seen. More than five million articles, ranging from ambulances to clothing, had been shipped to Britain, ready for the demands which flooded British relief workers. Thousands of men, women and children, whose houses and tenements had been destroyed, were clothed and fed. For such needs as these, the Red Cross needs money. Give when, you are asked, and give more than you can spare.

Of Potential Value

The recent announcement that the Federal government is considering a proposal to send a mission of officials to Great Britain to study the needs of that country for Canadian agricultural produce appears to contain the germ of a reasonable and sensible suggestion.

Such a plan, if implemented, could not do any harm and might be productive of much good. Its effects, provided the mission is well chosen as to personnel, might be far reaching and the resultant objectives could very well be beneficial to both Great Britain and this country, not only for the remainder of the war, but for the future, long after guns have ceased to bark and bombs to spread devastation.

The immediate and paramount objective is, and necessarily must be, assistance to Great Britain to help her win the war as speedily and as effectively as possible and to this end Canadian agriculture must be directed with the greatest degree of efficiency possible.

That this is the impelling force behind the proposal is evidenced by the words of the government spokesman who, making the announcement said: "If an official party goes over (to Great Britain), it will not be with the object of seeking a market for Canadian products, but rather to see what the needs are, and to make provision to supply them without haggling over prices."

This undoubtedly summarizes the viewpoint of every Western Canadian farmer who realizes that there will be no future at all for him and his family, that he will have no choice as to what he shall grow and how, and that what he does produce will be grown under conditions of absolute serfdom, if Hitler and his Nazi hordes are allowed to conquer Britain.

At the same time, it is quite on the cards, that it will be found that the best form in which this assistance to the Motherland can be rendered, may be of material advantage to the future stabilization of the agricultural industry by directing it towards greater diversification, even though it may mean immediate sacrifices and perhaps sacrifices as long as the war lasts.

Potential Objectives

As the government spokesman said, the object of the mission is "not with the object of seeking a market for Canadian products," but nevertheless it may be found upon investigation that the needs of Britain can best be served by furnishing in greater quantities and better quality those agricultural commodities which will serve the best interests of long-range agriculture in this country.

As an illustration one might cite butter as a potential objective, and butter is mentioned solely for illustrative purposes. Beet sugar, or some other direct or derivative agricultural product might just as well be considered.

However, consider butter as a possible real and serviceable need for Britain which perhaps could be supplied by Western Canadian farmers.

Western Canadians who have come in contact with children evacuated to this country since the outbreak of the war have commented upon the astonishment of these little Britishers at the lavishness with which butter is used in the average Canadian home. Butter, during the past few months has been so severely rationed in Britain that these little ones have become accustomed to eating their bread with little more than a thin trace of butter with which to garnish it.

As every one knows, before the subjugation of Denmark, that unhappy country was one of the principal sources for the supply of butter to Britain. Butter has been rationed in Britain to infinitesimal quotas by Canadian standards, and margarine is being used to supplement these meagre supplies. It is not possible that British people would welcome substantial supplies of good quality butter, if Canadian farmers were able to furnish good quality butter at a reasonable price, or even at a comparatively low price?

If there is a real need for butter in Great Britain and if other considerations due to the exigencies of the war do not stand in the way of preventing acceptance of Canadian butter in the old land, might it not be good business for the Western Canadian farmer to cater to this apparent need at a very small margin, if the proposed delegation find that the road is open?

A Long Range View

Assuming that such a need exists, that the way is clear to meet it and that war necessities do not prohibit it, one can imagine that the development of this market for a Western Canadian product might serve Western agriculture an excellent turn, if not immediately, then, at any rate, after the war. It would mean a better balanced agriculture and a greater stabilization of the industry, the need for which may become very apparent sooner or later in the future.

The point is stressed that butter is here mentioned as purely hypothetical. It may not be better, it may be something else. It will be the duty of the mission to find out how best Canadian agriculture can help win the war but, if at the same time, it is found that assistance can be rendered in such form that it will confer a long range benefit upon the agricultural industry of this country, it will be that much the better.

Warplanes Are Costly

Buy a warplane! This is the favorite pastime in Britain, and among several organizations in Canada. In case you are interested, the prices are cited. The fighter planes, which have taken such a heavy toll of German invaders, Spitfire and Hurricane, cost $26,700 and $20,025, respectively; a Blenheim bomber $75,650, a Wellington $111,250, and a Sunderland flying boat, $222,500.

Military Training

Regulations Regarding Calling Of Men For Home Defence Service

Proceedings and regulations relating to and governing the calling of men for military training under the National Resources Mobilization Act are set forth in detail in an order-in-council published in an extra edition of the Canada Gazette.

It gives the minister of national defence power to establish training centres, staff them and determine the number of men to be trained and the length of period of training. Staffs will be paid on the basis of the Canadian Active Service Force rates.

The order requires the minister of national defence to call upon the minister of national war services for the necessary number of men and to indicate what numbers of French-speaking men shall be called so that they may be accommodated in either French, English or bilingual camps.

The order provides for medical examination of men upon their reporting to training centres and attachment of the fit to some unit of the Non-permanent Active Militia. Men who complete training will be given certificates as proof of their service.

The period of training is set at 30 days "or such other period as the minister may from time to time prescribe."

The order provides for food and clothing during periods of training, pay on the basis of Non-permanent Active Militia rate and transportation home. In the event of men being called for the accommodation at any training centre the order instructs that the surplus men shall not be medically examined but forthwith returned to their homes.

A man who has taken training, the order provides, may be transferred without his consent to any corps of the militia other than that to which he was originally posted or to the naval or air forces but only for home defence.

Any man called up who commits an offence against military law while undergoing training may be punished according to military law after the period of his training has elapsed.

New Bodleian Library

Little Notice Taken Of Opening On Account Of War

Something which at another time would have attracted wider attention happened at Oxford University a few days after German forces had occupied Paris. The doors were opened of the new Bodleian Library, built since 1937 and providing book stacks sufficient to hold 5,000,000 books. The Bodleian receives automatically a copy of every book published in England.

The old Bodleian, heretofore to be used for reading rooms and staff offices, remains as an historic reminder of another opening of doors nearly three and a half centuries ago. That was in 1603, where the bookless Oxford University Library—whose books and manuscripts had been provided by Humphrey, Duke of Gloucester, in the fifteenth century and destroyed or dispersed in the sixteenth—had been resupplied by Sir Thomas Bodley with a collection valued at about $50,000. At the same time he paid the cost of enlarging the existing building and provided a fund for the purchase of books and maintenance of the library—Christian Science Monitor.

When Honors Are Withdrawn

Ceremony Of Degradation Takes Place In Windsor Chapel

King Victor Emmanuel of Italy is no longer a member of the Order of the Garter. A recent issue of the "London Gazette" contained a command from the King for the removal from the lists of honorary members of the British Orders of Chivalry and from the rolls of foreign holders of British decorations and medals of all names of persons who are of German or Italian nationality. The Knights of the Order of the Garter is one of the most important of Emmanuel's British honors. His banner and shield hang in St. George's Chapel, Windsor. The ceremony of degradation takes place at night. The banner and shield are taken down, the banner is trampled upon by high officials of the Chancery of the Order, and then removed to the vaults beneath, the shield to rust, the banner to decay. It was understood that King Leopold's name would shortly be removed from the British honors list. Mussolini and Sir Aldo Castellani, the specialist, also lose their decorations.

Carries Out Lone Raids

Dutch Flier Takes Vengeance On Nazis For Killing His Family

Devon Francis tells this story: A one-man air force in the person of a Netherlands flier whose family was wiped out at the start of the Nazi offensive through the Low Countries last May is carrying out nightly "vengeance" raids from Britain against German military objectives in the Netherlands.

The airman is Koene D. Parmenter, former chief pilot for the Royal Dutch Airlines. His raids have been directed principally against the Germans at Rotterdam, where his family was killed during the Nazi bombing which signalized the start of the spring blitzkrieg, and The Hague and Amsterdam.

After each raid he drops a signed note overboard to the Netherlands inhabitants, for their own protection, where he will strike the following night.

I first ran on to the story of Parmenter in Bermuda and confirmed it in United States aviation circles.

It is reported, but unconfirmed that the Nazis have placed a price equivalent to $10,000 on his head.

When the Germans invaded the Netherlands, they levelled whole sections of Rotterdam with bombs. Of the sixty pilots in the Royal Dutch Airlines, forty were put into uniform for air defence. All were killed.

Of the remaining twenty, Parmenter escaped, first to France, and then to Lisbon, Portugal. There he mingled with the flying fraternity of the port. He said he was going to repay the Germans many-fold.

He got to England, offered his services with qualifications. He was to have the use of Netherlands planes. He was to make his raids alone. He asked nothing but supplies of bombs and fuel. The Royal Air Force agreed.

For weeks now, regardless of weather, he has carried on his vengeance flights. He leaves by the clock and returns by the clock, striking off without a word after he lands.

Has To Work Overtime

Soldiers And Sailors In England Keep Woman Tatooist Busy

Grace Bell, England's only professional woman tattooist, is working overtime designing arrow-pierced hearts, sweethearts' names, anchors, army crests, bulldogs and Union Jacks on the brawny chests and arms of sailors and soldiers.

The war has caused a great revival in tattooing and 20-year-old Grace is kept busy at her electric needles. "Sailors are still our best customers," she said. "Tattooing is traditional in the navy and is more popular than ever to-day."

Her proudest job was when the heroes of the battle of the River Plate came back to Chatham. Most of them were boys from the Ajax and all wanted "Battle of the Plate, 1939" tattooed beneath bulldogs or Union Jacks.

Grace has had many proposals of marriage from her customers but has turned them all down in favor of "Jack", a Scots sailor, who doesn't believe in tattooing and refuses to let her do her name on his arm.

Left The District

In Some Cases Men Called For Military Training Have Moved

It is reported officially that quite a number of carls that were sent out to young men being called up for military training, are being returned to headquarters with the notation that the addressee had left the district and that his present address was unknown.

This might happen, in many cases, through carelessness or through the young men not having learned that any change of address, after the national registration, must be reported to district headquarters. But if there were deliberate moving about and concealment of change of address with a view to escaping military training, it should be well understood that there is a severe penalty for this, and that rigorous action will be taken to prevent evasion.

That is necessary in fairness to all others who are required to report, and to go to training camp. Compliance with the order to report, rather than any attempt at evasion, will mean the avoidance of serious trouble. —Winnipeg Free Press.

Canadian Air Force To Be Vital Factor In Winning The War

Ottawa.—Air Marshal W. A. Bishop, always "high" on the British Commonwealth air training plan, returned to the capital from the United Kingdom and told newsmen his visit gave him a "new conception" of the plan's importance.

"The plan is even more important than I had previously imagined," said the Canadian ace of the First Great War, now director of Royal Canadian Air Force recruiting. "It will be a vital factor in winning this war."

Air Marshal Bishop flew back across the Atlantic in the British flying boat Clyde, landing at Boucherville, Que., Saturday.

Air Marshal Bishop spoke with confidence of the R.C.A.F. in particular and British airmen in general. "Our boys are sweeping the skies," he declared, "the Germans, a little less doughty, I think, than their predecessors of the last war, simply refuse to mix with our grand Spitfires. Hurricanes and Defiants and the bold airmen who zoom them."

He said the only time the Germans really attempted to put up a fight was when they greatly outnumbered their British opponents. He described modern air duels he had witnessed over Britain as "naturally much speedier than anything we had to deal with last time."

Optimistic about progress of the air war, he said Britain is on the way to gaining numerical superiority over the enemy. British figures on enemy losses were conservative, and a "definite underestimate."

"In addition," he said, "we have superiority in our machines, and in the quality of our personnel. "As for the Canadian flyers in the Royal Air Force and the R.C.A.F., their work has been perfectly amazing. All Canadians have gained a tremendous reputation."

Air Marshal Bishop was himself a fighting ace in the First Great War, bringing down 72 German planes on the western front.

Recently he went to Britain to inspect Canadian and British air facilities.

During his stay in the United Kingdom he went through numerous German air raids and brought back the impression that the Nazi bombings "don't worry anyone over there."

"In fact, London was so confident that on the nights I spent away from it was jittery to get back," he said. He was visiting the Belgrave Square home of J. P. Bickell, Toronto, assistant to Lord Beaverbrook's air production ministry, when a bomb crashed nearby, scattering plaster and glass.

He talked to the King in Buckingham Palace while the air raid sirens wailed. The King was sitting in the same spot he had been just a few days before when a bomb crashed into the palace 25 steps away.

The King spoke calmly of his experiences during the war, saying the bombing that day because the weather was bad and that after the warning had been given he didn't bother going to the palace shelter. Also while in embattled London he talked to Prime Minister Churchill and found him "sure and full of confidence."

Strengthen War Effort

Britain To Create Scientific Advisory Committee

London.—Great Britain has created a scientific advisory committee to strengthen her war effort by bringing eminent scientists into active co-operation with branches of the government.

The aims of the committee as announced by the prime minister's office are to:

- 1.—Advise the cabinet on any scientific problems referred to it.
- 2.—Advise government departments when so requested on the selection of qualified persons for scientific investigations or on the selection of members for committees on which scientific knowledge is required.
- 3.—Bring to the notice of the cabinet any scientific or technical developments likely to be of importance to Britain's conduct of the war.

Japanese In Canada

Tokyo Advised Of Anti-Japanese Sentiment Shown Here

Tokyo.—Newspapers charged that Canada was showing anti-Japanese sentiment since Japan allied herself with Germany and Italy and said the government was giving serious consideration to reports of anti-Japanese measures proposed by the Vancouver municipal assembly.

The newspapers displayed prominently a report that acting Japanese Minister Akira Matsui, at Ottawa, had informed the foreign office that the Vancouver assembly "for the purpose of opposing Japanese residents" had decided to recommend closing Japanese elementary schools, deport Japanese who violated Canadian laws and those regarded as having entered the country illegally, and forbid the entry of new Japanese immigrants.

New Policy

Canada Has Decided To Build Airplane Engines

Ottawa.—It is learned that Canada has decided to build airplane engines instead of depending on supplies from England and the United States. At present the Dominion is building several types of planes for the Royal Air Force but only the frames have been shipped overseas. The engines are being installed in England.

The strain of production on the English factories is believed to be the reason for adoption of the new policy.

For Canadian Navy

Fifteen Yachts Added To Anti-Submarine Patrol Vessels

Ottawa.—Further expansion of the Royal Canadian Navy through acquisition of 15 large ocean-going yachts, was announced by Navy Minister Macdonald.

The vessels were acquired for conversion into anti-submarine patrol vessels, the minister told newspapermen gathered in his office for a press conference.

The new additions to Canada's naval strength have been renamed after Canadian animals.

Escaped From France

An East Coast Canadian Port.—Lt.-Col. George P. Vanier, Canadian minister to France up to the time the French government collapsed, arrived here aboard a liner carrying refugees from Britain. The minister spent several months in England following his escape from France.

Plans Have Been Discussed

Unemployment Insurance Commission Will Be Starting Work Soon

Ottawa.—Office accommodation in one of the main problems facing the unemployment insurance commission which held its first meeting in a committee room of the senate.

Dr. Joseph Sirois, Quebec, lawyer, who heads the commission, met with commissioners Robert J. Talbot, Ottawa, and Allan M. Mitchell, Montreal, to discuss their plans.

"We did not even get to the organization stage," Dr. Sirois said after the meeting. "We hope to have plans for organization completed soon."

Of the estimated staff of more than 100,000, the unemployment insurance scheme it is expected several hundred will be located permanently in Ottawa.

A national advisory board to assist the commission will be an early necessity, but the first step will be to build up the nucleus of an office staff and organize the workers required in employment offices located in each province.

Red Cross Is Prepared

Supplies Have Been Stored At Strategic Points In Canada

Vancouver.—The Canadian Red Cross, in spite of its extensive assistance given to Great Britain, is not neglecting Canada, according to Dr. P. W. Routley, national commissioner, now in Vancouver.

The Red Cross here is preparing for any eventuality on the Pacific or Atlantic coasts and large supplies of materials have been stored at strategic points, he said.

"Our Red Cross divisions at the Pacific and the Atlantic, in co-operation with the national office, have made preparations for any disaster that might come," said Dr. Routley.

Sees Russia Opposing Nazis

London.—Count Edmund Czernin, Czech diplomat and scholar, said in an interview that the final phase of the present war will be fought in the Balkans with "Russia opposing Nazi forces sweeping eastward toward her rich wheat fields of the Ukraine."

Spilled By Clouds

Rio de Janeiro.—Cloudy weather spoiled the costly and palmaris operations of expeditions from Brown University and the National Geographic Society to observe the eclipse of the sun on Oct. 1, reports from their remote outposts said.

Canadian-American Board Decide Defences For Atlantic Coast

Blockade Success

Germany And Italy Deficient In Commodities

London.—Germany and Italy, the latter especially, are deficient in "many key commodities without which modern war cannot be carried on," Hugh Dalton, minister of economic warfare, declared.

After a year, he said, the British blockade is attaining "a remarkable degree of success."

As yet, however, Britain's opponents are "not so short of oil as I would like," he told a luncheon gathering of the national defence public information committee.

Besides oil, Mr. Dalton listed alloys, rubber, lead, copper and textile as commodities "in which shortage of varying degrees has been created by us in enemy territory."

"We have evidence already that the Nazis have practically exhausted all the oil which they have looted from countries which they overran," he said. "Now they are back where they were, with the additional handicap that they have to provision the over-run countries in order that their economic life may continue at all."

The German war effort died out in 1918, Mr. Dalton said, while Germany still had 1,000,000 tons of oil, adding that "to-day, the dying oil figure would certainly be much higher."

Mr. Dalton asserted he was "quite satisfied from a study of the facts that in Europe as a whole there will be no famine this winter," and that "there will be enough food to round provided it is fairly shared out."

To Aid Britain

Plan To Send Canadian Firemen To Fight Damage From Bombs

Vancouver.—A plan to send 20 battalions of Canadian firemen to Britain to fight damage done by Nazi bombs is being given "very serious consideration" by the Dominion government, according to word sent by Hon. C. G. Power, minister of defence for air, to the plan's originator, Fire Chief O. L. Lister of Vancouver.

The corps would consist of 500 trained and well-equipped firemen with at least five years' experience, said Chief Lister. He is head of the University area fire department.

Canadian Delegation Will Go To Britain To Discuss Defence

Ottawa.—Parliament will meet for its next regular business session early in January unless some emergency like an attempted invasion of Britain or serious developments in the Far East make an earlier sitting advisable. Prime Minister King announced at a press conference.

Both the senate and commons stand adjourned until Nov. 5, but they will meet on that day only for the formality of adjourning again to a date yet to be fixed early in January.

Mr. King told a group of 20 Ottawa correspondents assembled in his east block office, that "the situation as we see it now is really less anxious than when we adjourned." He said it appeared possible there would be no attempt to invade Britain "although it may come tomorrow." Parliament adjourned Aug. 7 subject to immediate call.

Deputy minister J. L. Talbot and some of his officers will go to England "soon" to discuss the whole defence situation with Prime Minister Churchill and other British officials, Mr. King said. Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner would precede the defence minister in a trip to England to ascertain United Kingdom food requirements, he added.

The prime minister announced the following appointments: Hon. Joseph E. Perrault of Arthabaska, Que., to be a member of the international "joint commission," replacing Sir William Hearst, who has resigned.

Dr. Bryce M. Stewart of New York City, Canadian-born authority on unemployment insurance, to be deputy minister of labor, succeeding W. M. Dickson, who is retiring on superannuation.

Question on the government's stand

Halifax.—The Canadian-American joint defence board decided upon how, in its judgment, Canada and the United States should co-ordinate their defence responsibilities in the event of an attack on this continent's northern seaboard.

The board's recommendations, necessarily a strict secret, will be placed immediately before the governments of the two nations. They cover not only measures to be taken in the event of actual attack but also steps that should be taken immediately and before any threat could be made.

"I think we have accomplished something (along mutual defence) for the first time in the history of our countries—a definite defence plan for our nations and the western hemisphere," said Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City, chairman of the United States section board.

The next session, spokesmen said, "probably" would be at San Francisco Nov. 11, followed by conferences at Portland, Ore., Seattle, Victoria and Vancouver.

Mayor LaGuardia and Col. O. M. Biggar of Ottawa, Canadian section chairman, combined in an oral statement. They said:

"We talked with representatives of Newfoundland (Finance Commissioner J. H. Penney and Justice Commissioner L. E. Emerson) and with that advantage we have decided upon a report to the two governments (United States and Canadian) regarding their defence responsibilities in this area."

"We are recommending the steps each should take, in our view, immediately in order that these responsibilities may be discharged efficiently and without delay. We cannot, of course, discuss details of these recommendations in either case. They are of a strictly military nature."

"Our statement, we realize, is scanty, but we assure you it covers an immense amount of detailed work."

"We have made a definite report indicating our views as to the responsibilities of the two governments and we have also recommended certain measures to be done in advance. Each nation will contribute to the defence of the other. Each will assume a certain amount of responsibility for the other."

On exports of metals to Japan, in view of recent United States restrictions of scrap iron and steel to that country, Mr. King said that in recent months Canada had retained virtually all her resources in these metals for Empire purposes.

G. P. Vanier, former Canadian minister to France who left that country when it capitulated, has arrived in Canada for conferences with his superiors here and his future plans will be decided later, Mr. King told a questioner.

In reply to another question, Mr. King said vacancies in the senate will be filled before parliament meets in regular session. There are three senate vacancies filling of which will give Liberal government appointees a majority in the red chamber.

Mr. King said Conservative Leader R. B. Hanson, with whom he had conferred on plans for parliament, had advised summer J. L. Talbot and some of his officers will go to England "soon" to discuss the whole defence situation with Prime Minister Churchill and other British officials, Mr. King said.

The procedure now will be that on Nov. 5 members sufficient to form a quorum, or more if they desire to come, will meet in both the commons and the senate, and adopt a formal motion to adjourn until a date to be named on that day, presumably a Thursday early in January.

Since a motion to adjourn is not debatable there will be no other business or formalities unless precipitated by some circumstances not now foreseen by the government.

For the Nov. 5 adjournment it will be possible to obtain a quorum in both houses from among members who live close to Ottawa and those representing distant constituencies may be saved the expense and time necessary to attend.

Abandon Plan

Suspension Of Children's Overseas Evacuation Announced

London.—The government announced suspension of the children's overseas evacuation scheme because of the danger involved in Atlantic crossings at this time of the year.

The scheme has not been abandoned and it is possible that it will be renewed next spring when thousands more children will be sent to Canada, the United States and Australia, to homes removed from German bombing planes.

Loss of the City of Benares and other vessels used to transport children to North America convinced the government that it could not be responsible for the safety of the children in German submarines lurking in the Atlantic in the late season, even when the ships are in convoy.

Ban On Butter

Rome.—Roman restaurants were forbidden to serve butter, either separately, in sandwiches or in any other form. In Milan, charges were brought against 697 merchants accused of profiteering on foodstuffs.

British Warships Are Unable To Lure The Italian Fleet Into Fight

Alexandria.—Britain's warships, in another sweep of the Mediterranean and Aegean seas, bagged four enemy bombers but failed to lure the Italian fleet into the open for a fight.

Britain demonstrated a new control of these seas, making zig-zag routes, once locating the enemy off the coast of Italy, but the distance was too great to make contact.

Planes from the fleet obtained the first glimpse of Mussolini's much-advertised but untested sea power in many weeks. The enemy warships when they were sighted, were headed for home bases, although the British fleet frequently cruised close to the Italian coasts.

The fleet was twice bombed during its swing through the Mediterranean and Aegean from Sept. 29 to Oct. 2 but anti-aircraft gunners and fighter planes made the attacks costly.

Enemy planes bombed the fleet Sept. 29. With the first burst of anti-aircraft fire the guns scored a direct hit on one of the raiders, the craft crumbling in mid-air and plunging seaward in a cloud of smoke.

The raiders soared higher, returned a few minutes later and dropped more bombs. Fighter planes of the fleet air arm shot upward from the aircraft carrier and loosed a withering barrage of machine-gun fire, sending three more enemy planes crashing into the sea.

The remaining raiders headed for home bases.

An officer aboard one of the warships describing the attacks said, "After a direct hit on an enemy plane we saw two men bail out landing in the sea not far from one of our destroyers, which was despatched to pick up the Italians."

"One of them was dead when he was pulled aboard having become entangled in his parachute and drowning; the other died shortly after he was taken from the sea. Both were buried at sea. The fleet was not bombed any more during the entire sweep."

After the Italian warships showed no willingness to come out and fight, the British warships gave their guns a thorough workout in battle practice, warring off "successfully" a mock air attack by the fleet's own air arm.

The ships twice swept along the Egyptian coast where Marshal Graziani is trying strongly to fortify his position, but there was no shelling of enemy bases.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

THE Dakar incident—an undeniable blow to British prestige—as it is termed by The Christian Science Monitor, an international newspaper which since the war started has favored American support to Great Britain, brings home to the people of Canada and the United States that a base has been secured by Germany for naval or aerial operations across the Atlantic. Dakar has suddenly come into the spotlight to occupy an important place in world affairs, and isolationists in the United States will realize that this is a very small world and that their great nation is not immune from attack either on the Atlantic or Pacific coasts. In the face of Germany's determined drive to rule the world, it appears that the only nations likely to be left to champion the cause of Democracy against Totalitarianism are Great Britain and its Dominions and the United States. The British Commonwealth Air Training Plan will in all probability result in permanent training centres being maintained in Canada. Here-tofore the chances of foreign domination or attack seemed very remote, but not so today. The situation causes serious thought, and the determined and united effort is required of all peoples who wish to retain the privileges of Democratic government. It is going to be a long, long war, which will require still greater sacrifices and devotion to a cause in which we all have implicit faith. It is that faith which will achieve final victory.

THE exchange of correspondence between Lethbridge Board of Trade and the prime minister's office, Ottawa, reveals that the Hutterite brethren will continue to enjoy immunity from military service. This applies not only to those already settled in Canada, but "also to those who may settle in the future."

THIS exemption has been the subject of much controversy. The Canadian Legion has protested it. A paragraph in Lethbridge Board of Trade's letter is very pointed, and with which many will agree. It states: "We wonder how the war could be carried on if we were all Hutterites or conscientious objectors. We would respectfully suggest that an order-in-council should be considered irrevocable and unchangeable, particularly if it is found to be unjust and unfair to Canadians or extends special privileges to certain classes."

AS a thrifty class of people who are an asset from an agricultural standpoint, there can be no fault to find with the Hutterites. In many ways their industry is admirable, though their mode of living tends to isolate them from the rest of the community, and they become to a large extent self-contained units. Though exemption was a clause in an agreement with Hutterites already settled, and therefore cannot well be disregarded, there is no good reason why this should apply to any particular class who may desire to settle in this Dominion.

The Weekly Newspaper Fighting Your Battles On Canada's "Home Front"

There can be no blackout of democracy while the Canadian Weekly Newspapers counter-attack propaganda with a barrage of well-aimed facts!

As custodians of a Free Press, we the publishers, editors and staff members of this newspaper enlist all our forces to fight for recognition of this vital issue: A Free Press and Democracy are inseparable. Violate one and you crush the other. Silence one and you destroy the very foundation of the other.

We have tasted one bitter fact from the cauldrons of totalitarianism into which have already been poured millions of lives sacrificed; dictators don't begin by using the sword to delude their people; they first use the pen, making the columns of their "news" papers the mouthpieces for their ill-directed lies and empty promises.

But such delusion is not for those of us who are honestly, fearlessly, wholeheartedly Canadian. Thanks to a Free Press, and a courageous and wisely directed weekly press, the Canadian people are the best informed in the world. Freedom of the Press is guaranteed to the people by our government and it shall not perish as long as the people maintain a Free Press!

Stand with the publishers of Canadian weekly newspapers in the battle for democracy. With a Free Press as your most powerful weapon against dictatorial despotism, there shall be NO SURRENDER for Canada and Canadians.

A Free Press constitutes the first line of defense in the battle for the maintenance of democracy. The weekly newspaper is an all-important factor in the upbuilding of the nation because it has such an intimate touch with the homes in the smaller communities throughout Canada.

Climatic Conditions Changing Over Period of Years

Bill Antle and Joe Plante Relate Experiences of Twenty-Six Years Ago.

The heavy rain experienced on Tuesday, Oct. 1, caused Bill Antle and Joe Plante to reminisce on happenings twenty-six years ago.

On Oct. 1, 1914, the two in company with Teddy Biefgen, now director of Forestry, Edmonton, set out in their model T Ford for Pincher Creek on a duck shooting trip. The rain was coming down heavily and they sought shelter in a barn at the Chonkel's farm. The rain developed into snow and the soft flakes became heavier and heavier. Before it stopped there were four feet of snow on the ground and our heroes found themselves stranded in the barn. Two weeks went past before they could get horses to take them to the station, the car being left behind. During their forced stay they lived on prairie chicken and ducks.

It is a long cry since then, states Bill, and the climatic conditions have certainly changed over a period of 26 years.

They would appreciate your help in their new scheme to raise money. Camay soap wrappers are worth 1/2¢ and 1-lb. Crisco labels 1/2¢, Chipso box top 1¢, 3-lb. Crisco labels 2¢. Any junior will be pleased to collect these and Mrs. Fred Antlos has kindly consented to receive them for the Junior Red Cross.

ROTARY IS BANNED IN JAPAN

Rotary has been dissolved in Japan following in the footsteps of Germany and Italy. No better evidence of what totalitarian government aims at could be offered than in their hostility to this international organization. Rotary preaches goodwill and understanding between nations. These Fascist-Nazi nations don't want that doctrine encouraged and it is for that reason they have banned Rotary and are so critical of the Christian church as well. —Lethbridge Herald.

ADVERTISING APPROPRIATIONS

A guide to advertising appropriations followed by experienced merchandisers is 2 per cent of gross turnover. Yet most small town retailers spend only a fractional part of one per cent, or nothing at all. Business cannot be developed in face of keen competition unless a real honest-to-goodness effort is made. The public read the ads, and are guided in their buying by them. Every time this paper goes out without a merchant's ad an opportunity is missed for increased business. It is the persistent effort that is most effective.

Remembrance Day

Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, according to John Blue, secretary-manager, is opposed to the observance of Remembrance Day this year, and is seeking the views of boards of trade across Canada in the hope of having the customary observances cancelled. All energies should be concentrated on winning the war, said Mr. Blue, who pointed out that Thanksgiving is close to the armistice celebrations in any case.

In co-operation with departmental authorities, the Canadian Red Cross Society has completed the establishment of emergency equipment on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Stores of supplies have been provided, mobile X-ray and hospital equipment placed at strategic points and countless other materials placed in readiness to meet any emergency arising from the coast. This is another of the tasks that has made it necessary for the Red Cross to ask your help. Give, when you are asked, and give more than you can spare.

WEDDINGS

The marriage took place at Holy Ghost church on Saturday, Oct. 5, of Antonetta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Marsillo, of Coleman, to Nicola Orinna, of Anaconda, Montana. Attendants were Clarence and Virginia Monaco, of Anaconda. Rev. Father Leo Sullivan conducted the ceremony.

The bridal couple will reside at Anaconda, where the groom is employed.

RADIO INTERFERENCE ON SECOND STREET CAUSES COMPLAINT

Residents on Second street complain of radio interference. They state that antique radios still exist and set up a scratching noise. Electrical machines also came in for condemnation.

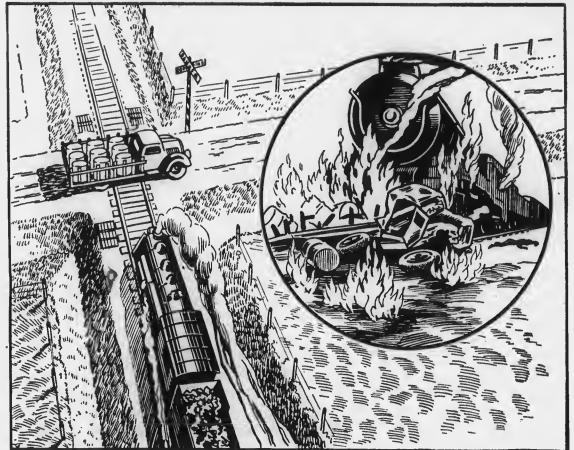

The only remedy is to wire the radio department and ask that a trouble shooter be sent to eliminate the interference.

JOURNAL STAFF WAS LUCKY

Lady Luck paid a welcome visit to The Journal office last week and left a sum of money to both members of the staff. The World's Series being in full swing and pools being all the rage in town we naturally had to gamble with the rest of the fans. On Thursday Tom Holstead, holding a 5-3 score on Cincinnati won the second day's pool and on Saturday, A. Balloch holding 5-2 Cincinnati, won the fourth day's pool. Needless to say the money came in very useful.

Up roar Hurricane fighters. Soon they were among the German raiders, blazing bullets into some of the 180 that Britain crashed down in one day to create a new air record.

Second in this newspaper's series of drawings illustrating actual railway crossing accidents which have taken a toll of life on the prairies recently, and which might have been avoided with ordinary care. The driver of an automobile drew up at a wayside crossing while a long freight train was passing and waited while a number of box cars went streaming past. Then came a break in the moving wall before him and he started his car, only to crash into one of several flat cars which went to make up the train. Two persons were fatally injured in this accident because of impatience and carelessness combined on the part of the car driver. It could have been avoided.

SANDY MACPHERSON

Professionally known as Sandy Macpherson, Roderick Hal Macpherson was born in Paris, Ontario. He was educated at St. Andrew's College, Toronto, and started his working life in a bank. He served in the Canadian army during the last war, after which he secured a job as pianist in a moving picture theatre at Hamilton. Later he was offered an engagement with Metra-Goldwyn-Mayer, as organist for theatres in Toronto, Montreal, and cities in the United States. While he was playing at Syracuse, New York, he was sent to London for the opening of one of his firm's cinemas. That was eleven years ago, and Sandy has been in England ever since. He was one of the first organists to broadcast on the BBC Theatre Organ. He is married—his wife, too, is a Canadian.

"Sandy's Canadian Half Hour" is a re-broadcast of a BBC Empire transmission.

The value of working to a pattern which was based on preparedness, resulting in the shipments of thousands of cases of materials such as hospital supplies and woollen clothing, was revealed when the Canadian Red Cross, from its warehouses in England, replaced the materials lost by the British Army in Flanders. Socks, sweaters, bandages, dressings and countless other articles were available because the Red Cross was prepared. The demand is greater now with the blitzkrieg on Britain, and you can help by giving more than you can spare.

Helping Britain Means Fighting for a Free America

The following letter from the Christian Science Monitor expresses an ever increasing sentiment on the part of the people of the United States:

I should like to express my approval of the aid the United States has given Great Britain in sending her fifty destroyers.

They were old destroyers, but I hope they are capable of excellent service. I hope they will acquit themselves valiantly in the Battle of Britain. I am glad we Americans are helping the Britishers fight Nazism.

"That means we are taking sides," many object. Of course, it means that. We should be ashamed to do anything less. Americans have to take sides—unless they have ceased being Americans. If we love America and are worthy of America, it goes without saying we must take sides. Every single good thing that America stands for is in danger. Can we go on pretending we love America if we are afraid to take sides?

Many of us Americans are conducting ourselves in a way that will soon deprive us of all self-respect. We won't be able to look ourselves in the face.

We are now in the midst of a tide of verbiel patriotism. At all times of day and night we hear people singing "God Bless America." We see signs, posters, stickers, placards, saying "God Bless America." The red, white and blue is used on every possible occasion.

Is that anything more than lip service? Not unless we are ready to sacrifice for America, to take risks for America, to resist the foes of America.

Hitlerism is an extremely pernicious and terribly aggressive force. Its treatment of Jews destroys the basis of brotherhood. Its hatred of non-Germans warps human character. Its doctrine of a superior race is the complete negation of democracy.

Its teachings about a master nation makes all international co-operation impossible.

It enslaves labor. It humiliates common people. It suppresses all freedom of expression.

It is brutal, deceitful, bullying. It disdains all absolute, spiritual norms, and subjects all values to the exaltation of one people.

It operates with terror and force. It degrades, darkens, chokes the human spirit, making men feel stooped, ashamed, unclean.

America could not exist in a world dominated by Hitlerism. Our ideals would be extinguished.

That is very plain. And it is equally plain that Great Britain is the only force in the world openly and actively opposing Hitler.

Great Britain is the only militant champion of high human ideals against their most terrible enemy. Great Britain is fighting the battle of all men and women who love freedom, enlightenment, and the right to stand unconcerned before God, who cherish spiritual ideals, nobility, gentleness, true education of little children, brotherly kindness. So England is fighting our battles, is fighting for the things Americans have prized since 1620.

And Britain is fighting magnificently. It was never greater than at this moment. At almost no other time in history has a supreme cause been more nobly and bravely defended than every day and every night by the Britishers. As we go tranquilly to sleep, they watch the skies for us.

Britain has plenty of faults, but no other great State has been so staunch a champion of freedom over so long a period. None has done so much to keep the ways of progress open. It is now outnumbered by a relentless foe, its women and babies are in constant danger, the flocks of bombers carrying destruction through its skies will probably increase, its nations are diminishing, its allies have all succumbed, but it stands, undaunted and unbowed.

In this moment of greatest peril it has not stifled freedom, it has not been swept up in a torrent of hate, and it has not given way to bitterness. Its laugh is not cynical, its smile is not cruel, the flame in its eye is not so much for destroying a foe as creating a basis for a new world.

Britain stands alone between all we hold dear and the most destructive force in recent history.

What manner of people would we be to applaud and shiver, but to help? What kind of people are those who dare not take risks for their own cause?

Our fathers took risks in well-doing. At every crisis they took risks. They took the risk of sacrificing themselves for their ideals. Are we afraid even to risk helping others who defend our ideals?

I am glad we sent ships for the Battle of Britain. It is also the Battle for America. I hope we'll give her all the help we can.

A free American in a free world is worth everything.

PETROS, Boston.

Prevent Fires By Avoiding Carelessness

These Simple Suggestions, If Followed by Everyone In The Family, Will Make Your Home Safe From Fires.

Put lighted matches and smokes cut before you throw them away. Keep matches where small children cannot reach them. Never smoke in the garage, barn, or attic, nor in bed.

Remove rubbish, waste papers and all unnecessary combustible materials. Provide metal ash and trash cans. Burn rubbish only in safely covered brick or metal incinerator. Watch the fire.

Examine all stoves, furnaces, and smoke-pipes to make sure they are safe and well away from woodwork or other burnable materials. Have needed repairs made at once.

Value the advice of your fire chief. He says that many fires are caused by dirty or defective chimneys. Have the chimney cleaned regularly, and have all defects repaired.

Escape the danger of flammable liquid and explosions by keeping no gasoline in the house. Do dry cleaning with safe liquids or send the work to the cleaner. Never start fires with kerosene.

Notify the electric company of electrical trouble and the gas company of gas leaks. Replace "blown" fuses with new ones—not pennies. Avoid homemade wiring jobs. Don't look for gas leaks with a match.

Teach everyone in the family to be careful of fire, to watch stoves, fireplaces, electric irons and all other possible fire causes, and every day to remove old rags, papers, and other rubbish.

Fireproof your home as far as possible by fire-safe roofing, fire stopping in hollow walls and partitions to stop the spread of flame, and a non-combustible basement ceiling.

Inquire of your fire chief, when buying a fire extinguisher, to be sure of getting the right kind. Don't hesitate to ask your firemen whenever you have questions on Fire Prevention.

Remember always where the nearest fire alarm box is and how to send an alarm. If telephoning, be sure the address is clearly understood. Use a neighbor's phone rather than one in the burning building.

Explain to everyone in the house what to do in case of fire, how to put out fire in clothing by wrapping in a rug or blanket, what to do when grease catches fire in the kitchen.

Save life and property from needless destruction by fire by keeping the principles of fire prevention always in mind and never taking a chance with fire.

DOMINION FIRE COMMISSIONER, OTTAWA.

Gonzaga University, which entered a team last year, has withdrawn, and the two-team idea at Trail was opposed by Kimberley and Nelson, and was dropped.

ADVERTISING A POTENT SELLING FORCE

Last week the George Pattinson Hardware advertised a dining room suite and a Chesterfield suite at bargain prices. Shortly after The Journal was circulated throughout town both articles were sold for cash.

The above is only another proof that Journal advertisements are read. True enough some items advertised remain unsold, but the fact remains the buying public reads the advertisements, yet may not be in the market for certain particular items. Show them articles at snappy prices and then listen to the musical tinkle of the cash register.

Bill Nineman, of Edmonton Publishers, writes The Journal asking that the paper be sent him each week in order to keep up with the local news. He states that the Coleman boys are all fine and think that although it is a tough life they will soon be good soldiers.

Plans have been made for the cultivation in Britain of the gold Beldandina to replenish the stocks obtainable since the outbreak of war.

Voluntary recruiting has given way to conscription in New Zealand, but the voluntary system produced 60,000 volunteers for service overseas with the army, navy and Royal Air Force.

A. D. McBain of the foreign exchange control board at Ottawa said at Toronto that $75,000,000 has been saved for Canada's war effort by restricting the travel of Canadians who ordinarily make pleasure trips to the United States.

A collaboration of two smart favorites—the jumper and the blouse—has resulted in a gay innovation for schooldays called the "jumphafore". It's an Anne Adams pattern, 4534—a peppy and engaging as can be, yet so very simple to make. No placket opening is necessary, as the back buttoning goes below the waistline. ## Red Cross Hospital Bombed

But Canadians Are Continuing Efforts Day and Night On Behalf Of Britain

Another Maple Leaf Club in London operated by the Canadian Red Cross has been battered by Nazi bombs, it was stated in a cable received at Red Cross Headquarters in Toronto. There were no casualties.

The service provided by the club will be carried on in other quarters and there will be no let up in the work.

This was the second time within a week that Canadian Red Cross property in London had been damaged by air raids. Previously the first Maple Leaf Club established by the Canadian Red Cross for Canadian soldiers was ruined by bombs. At that time the staff, including Pat Tuckett, Toronto nurse, Jan MacLaren and Faith Watson, Toronto girls, moved to the second club and played heroic roles in aiding air raid casualties in the district. They were all in the club damaged recently, but escaped without injury.

Canadian Red Cross workers are continuing their efforts day and night in England on behalf of people left injured and homeless by enemy raids. Mrs. H. P. Plumtree, Chairman of War Activities, stated. Thousands of articles and clothing and hospital supplies, as well as tons of food, are being distributed daily. The Canadian Red Cross is lending ten thousand dollars to its London office to purchase urgently needed boots and shoes for homeless children. This in addition to the ten thousand pairs of rubber boots being shipped from Canadians in response to an urgent appeal from London. Thousands of blankets stored in Canadian Red Cross warehouses in England are being distributed daily and, in response to a cable, ten thousand more will go forward from Canada immediately.

Helping Chinese Victims

Noted Author Starts Drive For Funds In United States

There are no boats waiting in Chinese harbors to transport the millions of refugee children to a safer country. They and their mothers must remain in their stricken land, defenseless against the bombings of the invading Japanese. But their plight has not gone unheeded. Even now, medical supplies are on their way to China. They are desperately needed to care for these innocent victims. A committee, headed by Pearl S. Buck, author of "The Good Earth," is currently conducting a campaign to raise $100,000 by obtaining the signature of 1,000 outstanding American women. Each woman contributes $100 along with her signature in a "Book of Hope," a testament of tribute to the women of China. As soon as contributions are received at the national headquarters of the Women's Committee of Tribute to China in New York, they are converted—through the American Bureau for Medical Aid to China—into serums, quinine and other medical supplies which are shipped to China.

Japan Will Feel Embargo

No wonder Japan feared a United States embargo on the export of scrap iron to that country. Last year she bought $20,000,000 worth of it from the United States—about 90 per cent of her imports—and it won't be a simple matter for her to conduct the war against China now that this source of supply is closed to her.

I Read --- And Write --- For You

By JOHN C. KIRKWOOD

The professional tramp or hobo is becoming easier to find than the who is always on the move, either on his own feet or as a passenger—of sorts—on a freight train. The tramps of today are softer men, preferring the comforts of municipal lodging houses and charity missions. Twenty years ago there were a million and a half hobos on this continent; now there are only 25,000 or so.

Perhaps the shrinkage is not wholly attributable to a love of the comforts of lodging houses; it is due in part to the laws of the land. Many states and provinces regard the hobo as a vagrant and so take him into custody and give him a pile of stones and a hammer. Also there are the discouragements of bad times and drought areas, which make charity increasingly difficult.

Time was when the hobo was a lover of the country; to-day he prefers the city, where he becomes a panhandler. Also there are the learned that the best hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; that the best spots are shopping districts; that the best prospects are prosperous-looking men in the company of a woman; that the worst prospects are prosperous-looking men without a woman; that the best nights are Saturdays from 11 p.m. until 2 a.m.; that the worst nights are Mondays. All this may be valuable to you if inclination or necessity puts you into the ranks of hobos.

Knitting is not the only feminine activity born of the war; also there is the making of navy flags. Flags are not made in one's home, but in flag "lots" connected with the navy yards. As we all know, navy yards are tremendously busy building ships, and every new ship requires an

Must Pay For Show

Wembley Spitfire Fund Benefits If People Ignore Raid Warnings

The air-raid wardens of the London boroughs have started a fund to buy a Spitfire. Wardens in Wembley have hit on a useful idea for swelling their fund. In spite of repeated warnings, the public will come out of their houses while there's a warning to see if there's any excitement going on. Now anyone caught out of doors or looking out of their windows is to be asked to contribute sixpence by the Wembley wardens, the proceeds to go to the Spitfire fund. If wardens in Hyde Park had done this during an afternoon raid warning recently they would have netted a nice sum comments the London Daily Sketch. After the first scramble to take cover, there seemed to be as many people in the park as before. The Daisy Walk was crowded, and the band went on playing for about half an hour.

The Issue—Our Happiness

There is no doubt whatever that the issue being fought out by the British people with such immortal heroism is not only decency, and safety, but the daily bread and ordinary everyday happiness of Canadians and Americans in every province, every state, and every class. Deacon Shem Drowne, of Boston, was the first professional artist in America of whom there is record.

Vicks-Vapo-r-nol is specialized medicine—expressly designed for the nose and throat. It works fast. It starts. Used in time, it stimulates Nature's defenses and keeps off many a cold, or to throw off a head cold in your early stages.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

OCTOBER 13

THE BOYHOOD OF JESUS

Golden text: And Jesus advanced in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and men. Luke 2:52.

Lesson: Luke 2.

Devotional reading: Ephesians 4: 11-15.

Explanations and Comments

The development of the Boy Jesus, Luke 2:40. Jesus grew physically, mentally and spiritually. "In spiritual wisdom and in faithfulness of life, Jesus still stands head and shoulders above the ages. Why? Because he not only advanced in self-development, but he advanced fast and far. We differ from him mainly in the rate of our self-development. The sense of religious obligation was stronger in Jesus at 12 than in many of us at 30 or even 50.

The Valt of Jesus to the Temple as a Boy. Luke 2:41-50. Mary and Joseph were accustomed to attend the Feast of the Passover at Jerusalem every year, and when Jesus was twelve years old, the age at which the obligations of the law began binding upon him, they took him with them. The feast lasted seven days, but it was obligatory to remain only during the first two days. Mary and Joseph remained the full seven days and then started for their home in Nazareth. They had gone a day's journey when they discovered that Jesus was not in the company among their kinsfolk and acquaintances, as they had supposed.

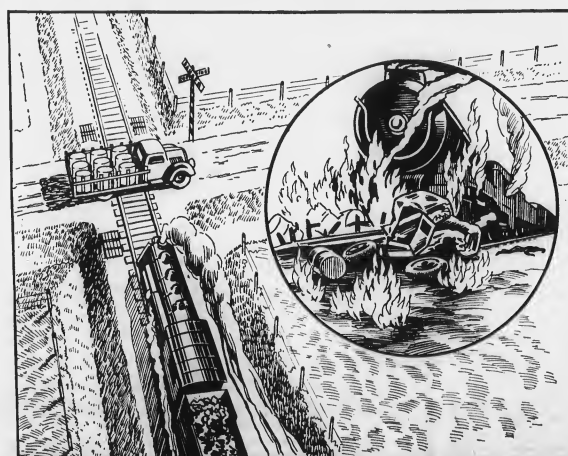

They retraced their steps and on the third day after reaching the city they found Jesus in the temple, sitting in the midst of the teachers, both hearing them, and asking them questions, and all were amazed at his understanding and answers. "Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us?" was Mary's very natural question, and natural too, was her reproach. "Behold, thy father and I sought thee sorrowing." "How is it that ye sought me?" questioned Jesus in his turn, in surprise, not in rebuke: "Knew ye not that I must be in my Father's house?"

And they understood not the saying which he spake unto them, although things which Mary had known before must have become clearer to her that day in the temple. "One thing which he said in his mysterious larger than her own. The other was, that God was over and behind her, that God was the life for which she had been caring. The largeness and mystery of her Son's life, and the Fatherhood of God to him, those are things which she learned there, and henceforth they were part of her life always." (Phillips Brooks).

His Life of Obedience in the Home. Luke 2:51-52. The little family returned to Nazareth, and there for 18 years Jesus lived with Mary his mother, subject unto her. As Joseph is not again mentioned in the Gospels, it is inferred that he died soon after this event in Jerusalem.

IT COULD HAVE BEEN AVOIDED

Beginning this week this paper presents a series of graphic drawings, produced with the co-operation of the Canadian Pacific Railway's engineering department, designed to lessen the heavy toll of lives taken every year by crossing accidents in this country. The drawings are taken from files in which investigation proved, a moment's care on the part of the motorist might have saved a life or lives. The sketches above illustrate what happened recently when a truck, overloaded with gasoline drums, tried to beat a main line train to a crossing in eastern Manitoba. The engine of the truck failed under the slight grade over the tracks and the truck itself was left in the path of the onrushing express. A terrific collision followed the impact and flaming gasoline was hurled over the locomotive. The truck driver was killed, as was one of the engine crew when the locomotive jumped from the burning cab. Because the truck was on his post to the last and set his brakes when he sighted the truck, no passengers were injured, but the collision was unavoidable once the truck had stalled. Ordinary care on the part of the truck driver would have averted this fatal accident.

Unadvertised Products

Are Very Much Like Plants Kept Away From Sun

An unadvertised product can be likened to a plant kept away from the sun, states J. C. Kirkwood, in Marketing. It may keep on living, but it cannot have its full potential growth and vigor. It receives a full measure of sunlight. The sunlight which can give an unadvertised product a new and large increase in sales is the public's favour.

It remains one of the strange things in human behaviourism—this withholding of commendation from a product from those for whom it is made. What is to be said of a man owning a racing greyhound who wants fame for it, yet who keeps it always kennelled, who refuses to race it?

What is there in the make-up of a woman's glove that gives it the irresistible urge to get down and wallow in the dust on the floor of a motion picture theatre?

"I've been making inquiries," said this surprising ex-convict, "and I've discovered that Sir Joseph is in all sorts of financial difficulties. This is unknown to the Prime Minister or even to his closest friend, but I have had a hint that he was very short of ready money and that his estates in Cheshire were heavily mortgaged. Now, Mr. Carlton, do you conceive it as possible that the speech in the House was made with the deliberate intention of slumping the market, and that Sir Joseph was paid handsomely for the part he played?"

As he was speaking, he clasped his hands before him, his fingers intertwined, he emphasized every point with a little jerk of his clasped hands, and, watching him, the mist rolled from Jim Carlton's brain, and he instantly solved the mystery of those private cinema shows which had kept Mr. Ingle locked up in his flat for a week. And to solve that was to solve every mystery save the present whereabouts of Sir Joseph Layton.

He listened in silence whilst Ingle went on to expound and elaborate his theory, and, when the man had finished:

"It will bring your suggestion to the notice of my superiors," he said conventionally.

It was evidently not the speech that Mr. Ingle expected. For a moment he looked uncomfortable, and then with a laugh:

"I suppose you think it strange that I should be on the side of law and order—and the governing classes! I felt a little when I came out of prison. Elk probably told you of the exhibition I made of myself in the train. But I've been thinking things over, Carlton, and it has occurred to me that my extremism is not profitable either to the pocket or my mind."

"In fact," smiled Jim, "you're going to become a reformed character and a member of the good old Tory party?"

"I don't know that I shall go as far as that," demurred the other, amused, "but I have decided to settle down. I am not exactly a poor man, and all that I have got I have paid for—in Dartmoor."

Only for a second were the old harsh cadences audible in his voice. He nodded toward Allen Rivers.

"You'll persuade this girl to give me a chance, Mr. Carlton? I can well understand how hesitate to keep house for a man liable at any moment to be whisked off to duress, and I fear she does not quite believe in my reformation."

He smiled blandly at the girl, and then turned his eyes upon Jim.

"Could you not persuade her?"

"If I could persuade her to any course," said Jim deliberately, "it would not be the one you suggest."

"Why?" challenged the other.

"Because," said Jim, "you are altogether wrong when you say that there is no longer any danger of your being whisked off to duress. The danger was never more pressing."

Ingle did not reply to this. Once his lips trembled as though he were about to ask a question, and then with a laugh he walked to the table and took a cigar from the box.

"I guess I won't detain you," he said. "But you're wrong, Carlton."

The police have nothing on me! They may frame something to catch me, but you'll have to be clever to do even that."

As they passed out of the building:

"I seem to spend my days giving warnings to the last people in the world who ought to be warned," said Jim bitterly. "Allen, maybe you'll knit me a moustache in my spare moments? That will help considerably."

The outstanding feature of this little speech from the girl's point of view was that he had called her by her name for the first time. Later, when they were nearing her lodgings, she asked:

"Do you think you will find Sir Joseph?"

He shook his head.

"I doubt very much if he is alive," he said gravely.

But his doubts were to be dispelled, and in the most surprising manner. That night a drunken black-faced comedian hit a policeman over the head with a banjo, and that vulgar incident had an amazing sequel.

CHAPTER XX.

There is a class of entertainer which devotes its talents to amusing the queues that wait at the doors of the cheaper entrances of London's theatres. Here is generally to be found a man who can tear paper into fantastic shapes, a ballad singer or two, a performer on the bones, and the inevitable black-faced minstrel.

It was 11 o'clock at night, and snow was lightly falling, when a policeman on point duty at the end of Every street saw a figure staggering along, the middle of the road, in imminent danger from the returning theatre traffic, which at this time of night is fairly thick in Mayfair. The man had obviously taken more drink than was good for him, for he was howling at the top of his voice the song of the moment, and making a clumsy attempt to accompany himself on the banjo which was slung around his neck.

The London police are patient and long-suffering people, and had the reeling figure been less vocal he might have passed on to his destination without interference. For drunkenness in itself is not a crime according to the law; a man must be incapable or create a disturbance, or obstruct the police in the execution of their duty, before he offends. The policeman had no intention of arresting the noisy wayfarer. He walked into the middle of the road to intercept and quiet him, and then discovered that the reveller was a black-faced comedian with extravagant white lips, a ridiculous Eton collar and a shell coat. On his head was a college cap, and he was making hoarse loud sounds with the banjo.

"Hi! hi!" said the policeman gently. "A little less noise, young fellow!"

Such an admonition would have been sufficient in most cases to reduce a midnight songbird to apoplexy, but this street wad stood defiantly in the middle of the road, his legs apart, and invited the officer to go to a warmer climate, and, not satisfied with this, he swung his banjo and brought it down with a crash on the policeman's helmet.

"You've asked for it!" said the officer of the night, and took his lawful prey in a grip of iron.

By a coincidence, Jim Carlton was at Every Street Station when the man was brought in, singing not unmusically, and so obviously drunk that Jim hardly turned his head or interrupted the conversation he was having with the inspector on duty to look at the charge. They made a rapid search of the man, he resisting violently, and at last, when they had extracted a name (he refused his address) from him, he was hustled between a policeman and a jailer into the long corridor off which the cells are placed.

The door of Cell No. 7 was opened, and into this he was pushed, struggling to the last to maintain his banjo.

"And," said the jailer when he came back to the charge room, wiping his perspiring brow, "the language that bird is using would turn a soldier pale!"

The reason for Jim's presence was to arrange a local supervision of Greenheart House, to obtain certain assistance in the execution of a plan which was running through his mind, and that task would have been completed when the black-faced man was brought in, but that the officer he had called to see was away. Jim lingered a little while, talking police shop, before he paid his last visit to Sir Joseph's house. He had the inevitable reply: No news had reached Whitehall Gardens of the Foreign Minister.

The man he came to see at Every street was due to appear at the police court in the role of prosecutor, and Jim strolled down to the court next morning, arriving soon after the magistrate had taken his seat, where he met the Inspector from Every street. Before Jim could broach the subject which had brought him, the Inspector asked:

"Were you at the station when the black-faced fellow was pulled in last night?"

"Yes, I remember the noisy gentleman," said Jim. "Why?"

The Inspector shook his head, puzzled.

"I can't understand where he got it from. The sergeant searched him carefully, but he must have had it concealed in some place."

"What is the matter with him?" asked Jim, only half interested.

"Dope," said the other. "When the jailer went and called him this morning it was as much as he could do to wake him up. In fact, I thought of sending for the divisional surgeon. You never saw a sicker looking man in your life! Can't get a word out of him: All he did was to sit on his bed with his head in his hands, moaning. We had to shake him to get him into the prison van."

The first two cases were disposed of rapidly, and then a policeman called "John Smith," and there tottered into court the black-faced comedian, a miserable object, so weak of knee that he had to be guided up the steps into the steeled corridor. Gone was the exhilaration of the night before, and Jim felt an unusual thrill of pity for the poor wretch in his absurd clothes and black, shining face.

The magistrate looked over his glasses.

"Why wasn't this man allowed to wash his face before he came before me?" he asked.

"Couldn't get him to do anything, sir," said the jailer, "and we haven't got the stuff to take off his make-up."

Effect Of War On Music

Artists Of Ability Leaving Europe And Will Live In America

The war is doing odd things to music, and it's the physical side of the art that suffers most.

It is true that in certain lands, particularly Germany and Russia, dictators have ruled out much music. The Soviet has objected to works by Tchaikowsky and Rimsky-Korsakoff because they are presumed to be steeped in the old regime and, therefore, dangerous to young Communists. Hitler has frowned on certain composers because they are Jewish.

But time has shown such conditions are likely to relax after the zealous cool a bit—they already have in Russia, says John Selby of The Associated Press.

The real danger abroad is that music will be directed as well as supported in part by governments, and that blood or political ideas rather than ability will govern.

Europe's loss is, theoretically, North America's gain. The Rachmaninoffs, Kreislers and Lehmanns long have spent most of their playing time in the Americas. But if there follows a financial tightening Americans will be competing against a larger field for fewer musical jobs. So far the opposite is true financially.

Was Written In 1938 And Mailed From Irish Island

Started on its way from Minaford Island, Ireland, on August 10, 1938, a letter has reached Philip Wharton, of Waterford, Ont.

Mail from the island is sent in water tight tin cans because boats cannot reach the shore owing to coral reefs. Swimmers take the cans out, and mail boats come along and pick them up when they can.

The letter reaching Mr. Wharton was first picked up on October 1, 1938, by a mail boat and was seemingly again cast adrift in the path of another mail boat, being picked up a second time on August 9, 1939.

Irrigation Projects

Survey Made In Manitoba By Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Organization

The Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act organization has completed a reconnaissance survey of the streams and rivers of agricultural Manitoba during this fall as a preliminary measure to ascertain prospects for construction of irrigation projects in that province. It was announced by John Vallance, superintendent of water development of Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act.

The work was undertaken at request of the Manitoba government. The immediate objective of the surveys was to determine what lands could be irrigated by rivers and streams, provided there is sufficient flow to make such undertakings economically feasible.

A report of the result of the preliminary survey will be prepared and submitted to the Manitoba government.

Amazing Aviation Feet

Australian Pilot Landed Two Planes Which Had Interlocked

Aviation men at Melbourne expressed amazement at the feat L. G. Fuller, an advanced student in the Royal Australian Air Force, in landing two twin-engined planes which interlocked in collision at 1,000 feet. The strange landing was made in a paddock near Wagga in New South Wales.

While three or four trainees in the two planes bailed out, Fuller remained at the controls of the upper plane. The propeller was deeply buried in the other machine's engine housing, but he was able to operate the wing controls and landed with amazing skill without further damaging either machine.

The fuelage of Fuller's plane partly crushed the other cockpit, slightly injuring the pilot, but this was the only casualty.

No Doubt About It

Perfect Report Of Lynching Given In Arizona Years Ago

A "gentle" way to describe a lynching has been found in the files of one of the first newspapers published in Tombstone, Arizona, once the toughest, wildest mining town of the Southwest.

A February, 1884, issue of one of the papers described how a mob of citizens stormed the Tombstone jail and removed Jack Heath, who had managed to escape the death penalty for murder.

The coroner, hearing that Heath had been hanged by the mob, investigated and then wrote the following report: "We find that Jack Heath came to his death from lack of breath."
